The city came first

Creation of a school begins with the citizens and the community . . . the city with its smells, one-way streets and old homes are much a part of each student, and certain places become familiar to all our minds . . . . .

the confusion of King Street as compared to the peace that exists as one strolls down the Battery streets.

a sunset of the water that seems to be everywhere and remember the trips over the bridge to reach even more water at the beach.

Then . . . one by one the buildings grew

classrooms and a gym await the blood, sweat, and the tears that fill their walls as the semester gets fully underway.

these are the places where the students meet, hold classes and for at least one semester center their lives . . . for dorm students it becomes home . . . emptiness in each of the buildings awaits the beginning of the session . . .

a place to lay their weary bones and feed their hungry mouths . . . dorm students make much use of rooms and the dining hall.

Confusion with moving-in kicks off the year.

arms cluttered and boxes stacked beyond their wobbling height—students entered the doors . . . mom and dad made moving a lot easier, but there is still much to be done . . .

signing your name on at least five different lists, getting a key, a rat hat, and finding a meal ticket; all part of moving-in up and down the steps until you feel as if your legs are going to break—then suddenly its all done and unpacking begins.

most students find that the easiest way to wait is to relax, settle down on the floor or find a chair.

And the waiting begins

as you register for courses, get dinner, pay your bill, or just go to buy your books, you wait in line . . . its part of the hazard of going to college . . . you finally get settled and find out that the waiting continues throughout the session as . . .

the longest lines are the one you are forced to wait in.

People—the most vital experience

reaching out to those around us while the unfamiliar faces soon become familiar . . . the cycle has progressed and we have met the bodies that will be a part of the college experience. These bodies as the book unfolds will work and join together to converge into the character of B.C.C.

staff, faculty, and administration will lend a hand while they guide us through our education experience.

students come close to others and find that someone will always be there if you need them.

people . . . , the first experiences that one comes upon when he arrives at college . . . new roomates, meeting teachers as you enter their classes, getting to know staff members while you prepare financial aid forms . . . As the bodies of the school we all converge into the character which is B.C.C.

Dr. John Asa Hamrick

College president must lead students and faculty

Serving as the mainstay for staff faculty and students, the college president is of great importance. He must not only be able to promote the school in the community, solicit financial help, but also represent it and be able to relate to the problems of the students in their everyday academic life.

Relating to the students involves leadership and friendship. Dr. Hamrick shows this as he joins students in the canteen.

In place of the classroom lecture, AFROTC cadets participate in rank promotion ceremonies as recognition of their achievements.

lin, Capt. Raymond Goodman

Mr. Al Ferner, Head Basketball coach; Dr.
William Kerr, associate baseball coach.

P. E. Yields Fulfillment of Character

The job of coaching does not stop on or off the court of field. It continues on into the classroom. Eight people can surely vouch for that. As a requirement for Baptist College graduates, physical education strives to stimulate the body thus, stimulating the brain.

Mr. Bill Bustle; baseball coach; Mr. Jim Settle, cross county coach; Mrs. Sandra Talarico, Women's P.E.; Mr. Paul Brant, Driver Education.

Use of Library Provides for Opportunities

Above: Miss Linda Cochran, Mrs. Betty Nemeth, Miss Thelma Elkins; Right: Merle Doran.

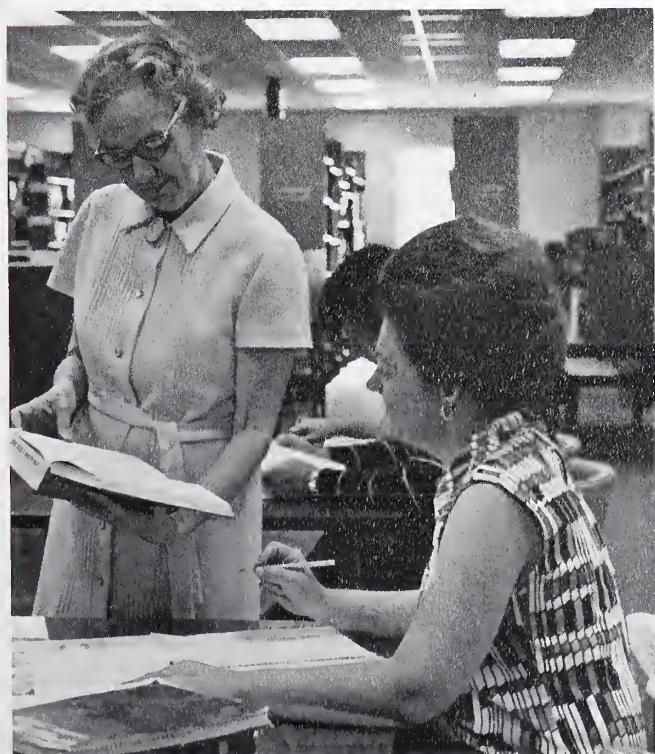

Packed with books and periodicals covering every area, the library opens to all students varied fields of study and unlimited information on subjects he already studies. Available for students' use in the library now is all the language laboratory equipment.

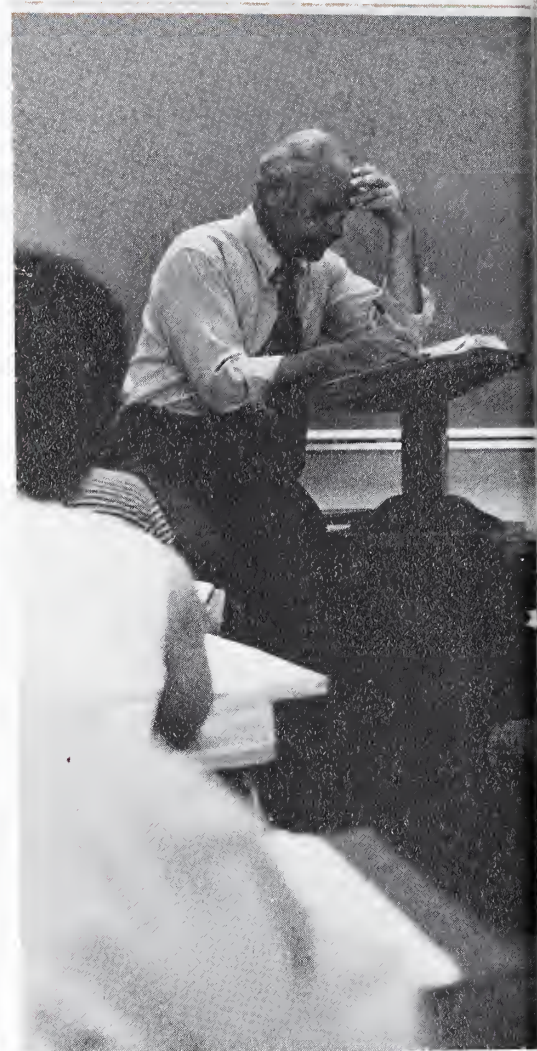

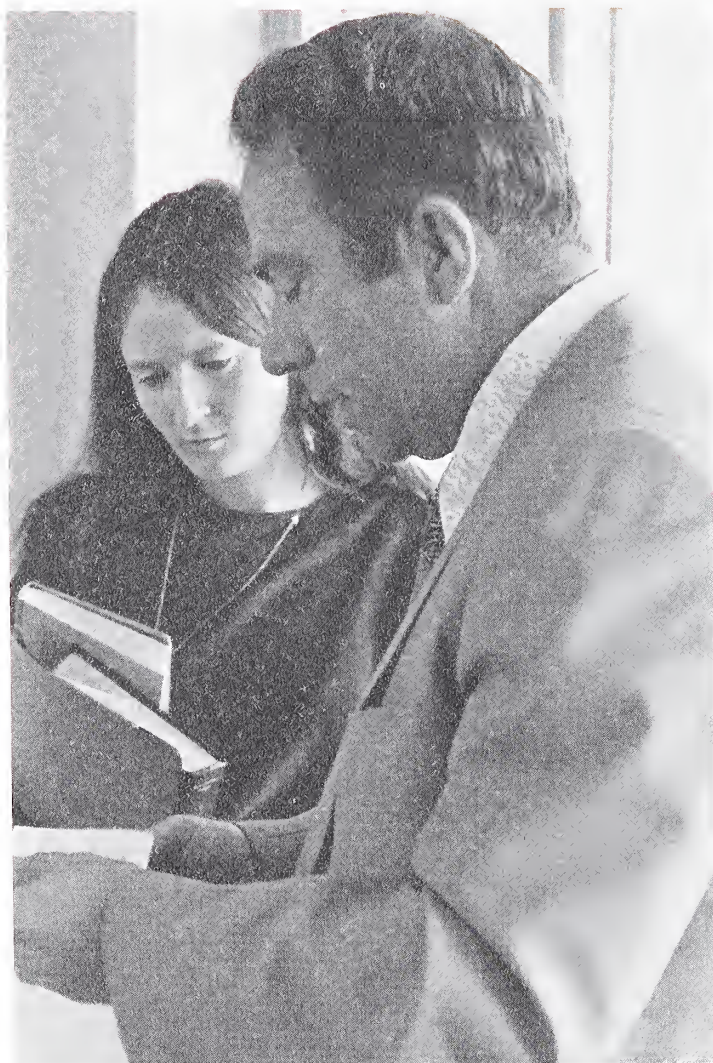

Below: Miss Doris Storm, Mrs. Betty Ann Todds.

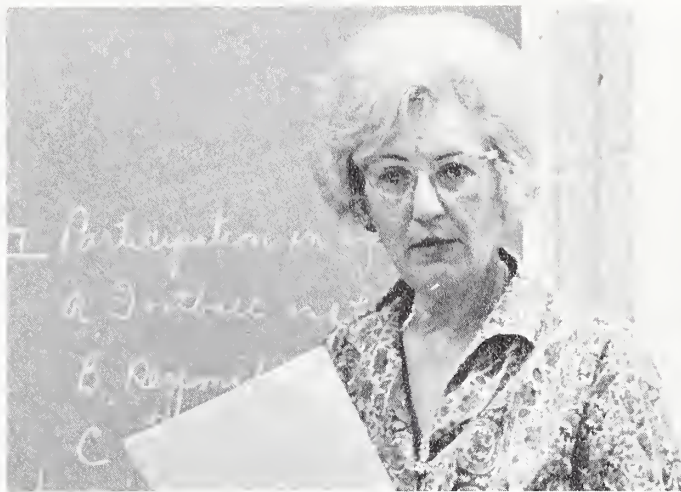

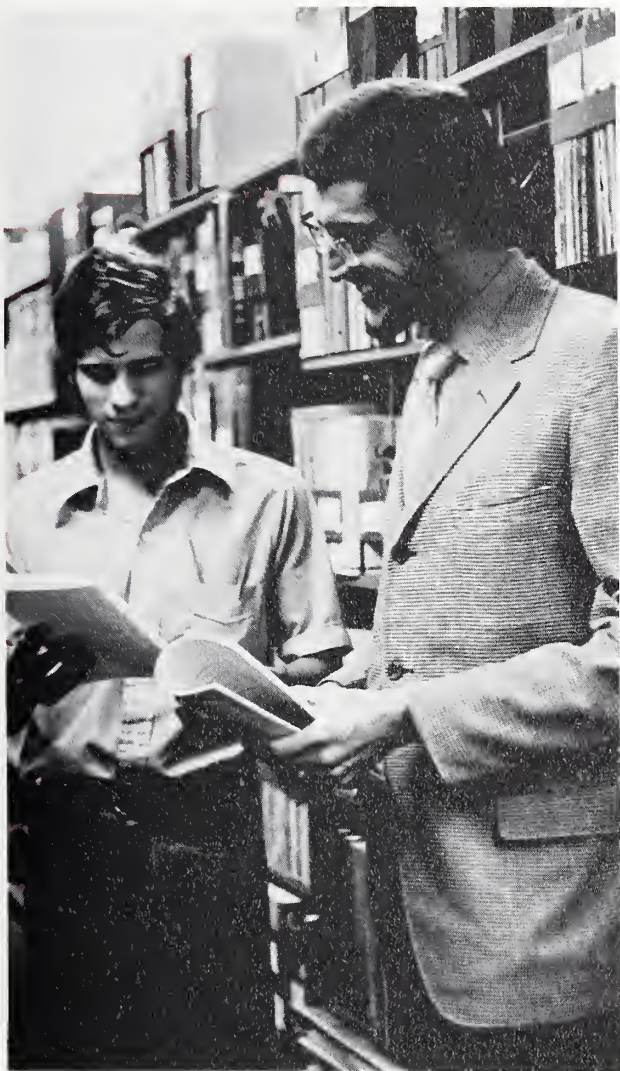

Dr. George Niketas, Dr. Charles Smith, Mr.
Douglas Donahue.

English covers the literature of many countries.

Dr. Howard Overton, Miss Majorie Peale, Mr. Silas Garrison, Mrs. Doris McCoy.

Variations from studies of American writers who are still living to the Old English that existed in the time of Chaucer are included in the curriculum offered. The history behind these works is studied, and the work itself is broken down to find its deepest meaning for each individual.

Mrs. Josephine Hutchison, Mr. Lionel Lackey,
Dr. Annette Clark

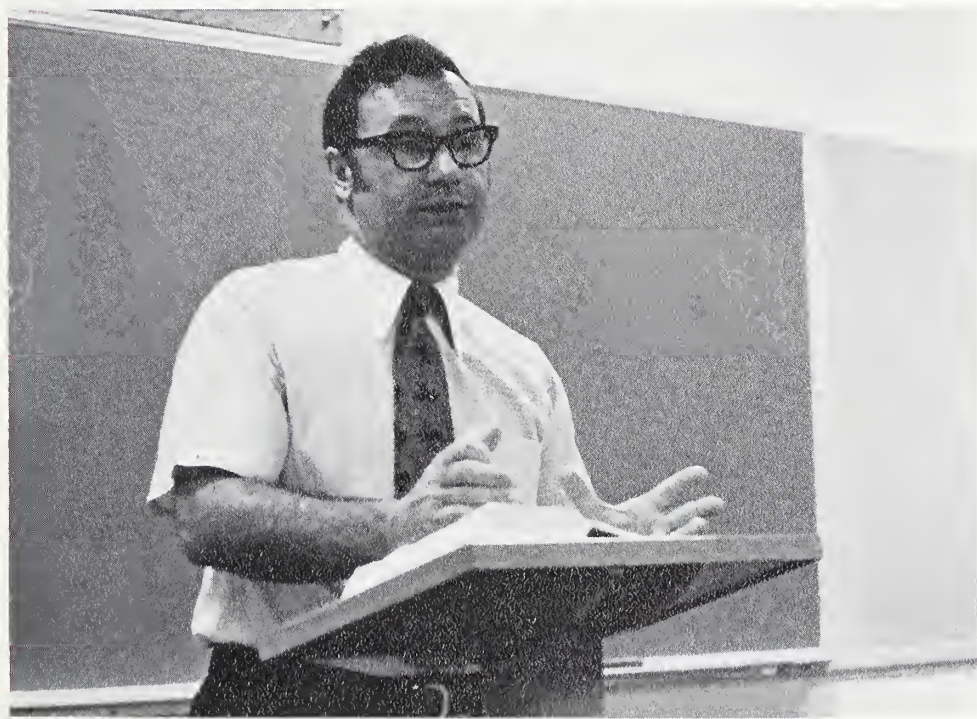

To most Americans, the English language comes natural. It seems as if it's been here since the beginning of time, but actually, it has not. Two years of requirements in English here at B.C.C. broaden one's literary spectrum.

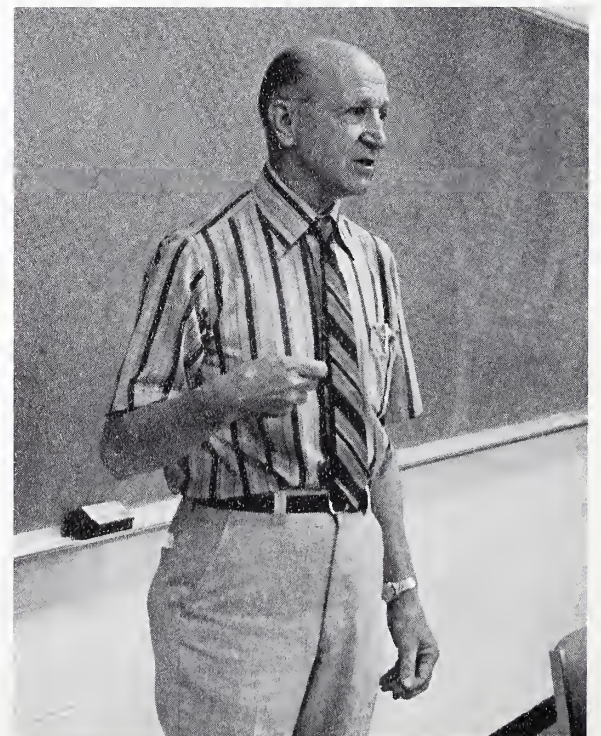

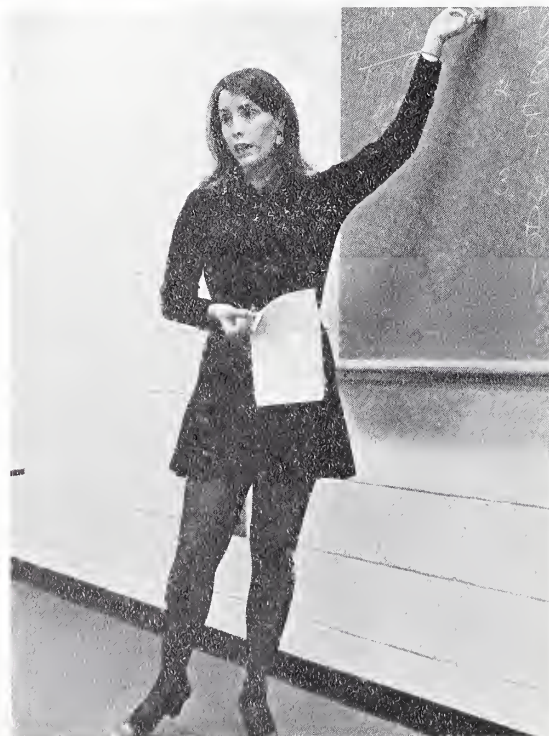

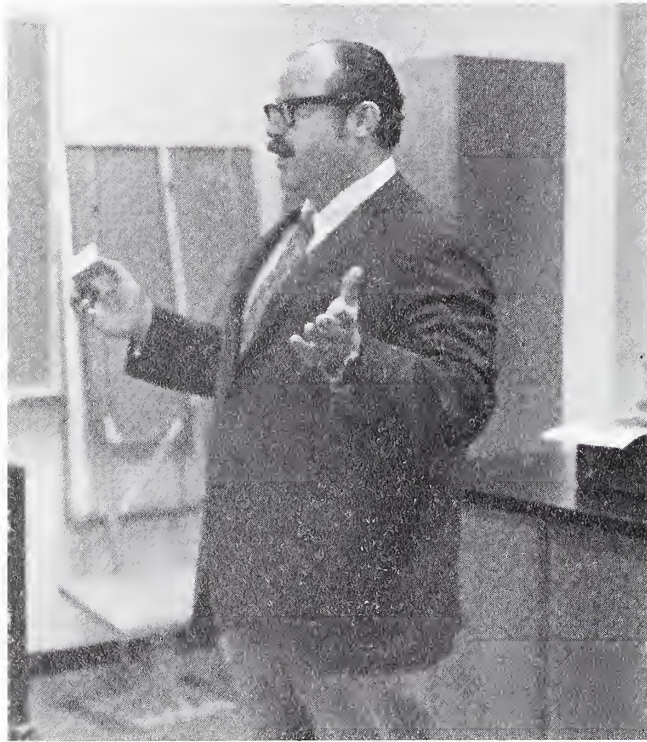

Mrs. Patricia Allen, Dr. James Rivers.

Students may capitalize on the various English courses.

Mathematics department applies logic

Offering qualified help, this section can be applied to almost any other study. Its outputs are used every single day. When a certain seven B.C.C. teachers get together, the main topic is most likely to be formulas, equations, and alphabets. You guessed it . . . the Math Department.

Dr. Robert Carroll, Mrs. Hazel Stewart, Mrs. Cecile Bailey.

Mr. Stephen Nemeth, Mr. John W. Hyden, Mrs. Eilleen Pettrick, Dr. Alvin Hanson.

Dr. David Cuttino, Dr. Anne Howe, Miss Suzanne Rollins.

Music therapy major is newest department addition.

Preparing students to work in the field, the music department offers a variety of majors. Added this semester was the music therapy major, designed with rehabilitation as the purpose of music.

Mr. Oliver Yost, Mr. Victor Lawson.

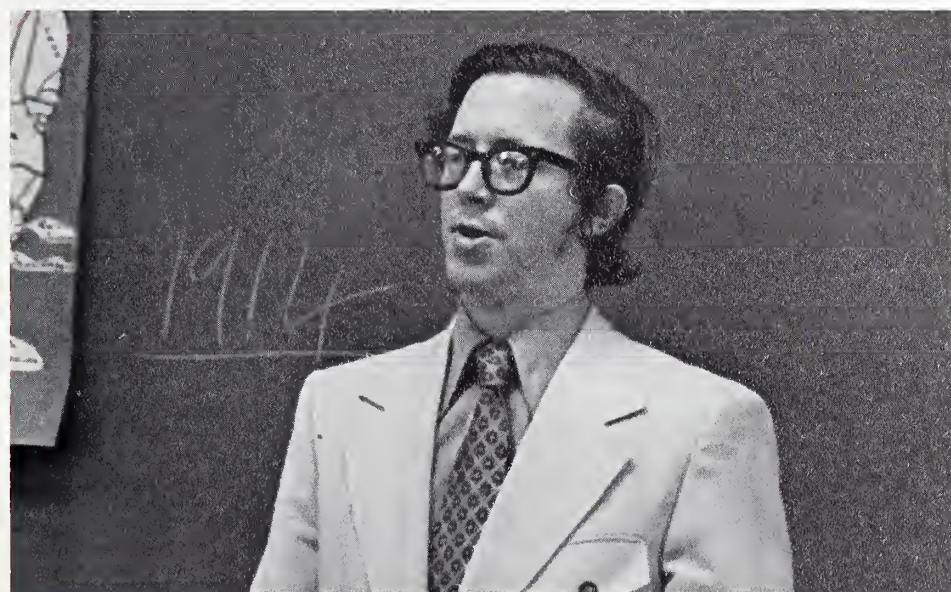

Dr. Paul Reitzer, Dr. Robert Andress.

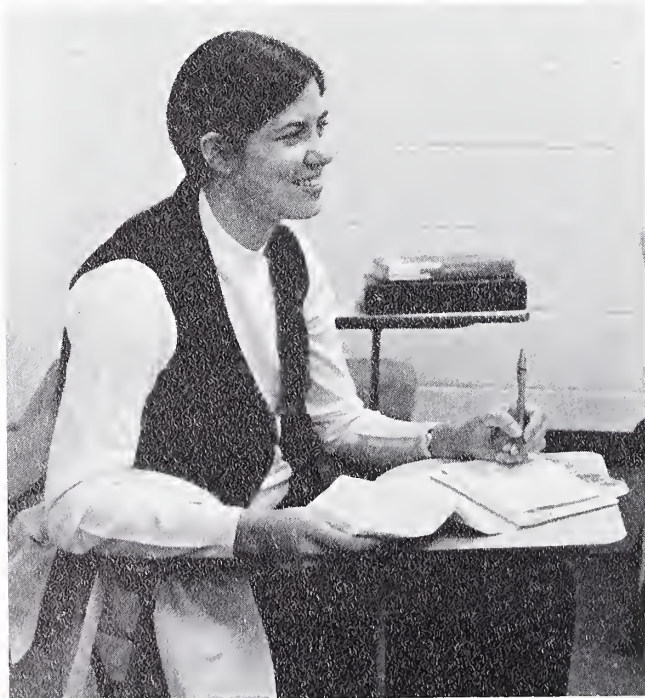

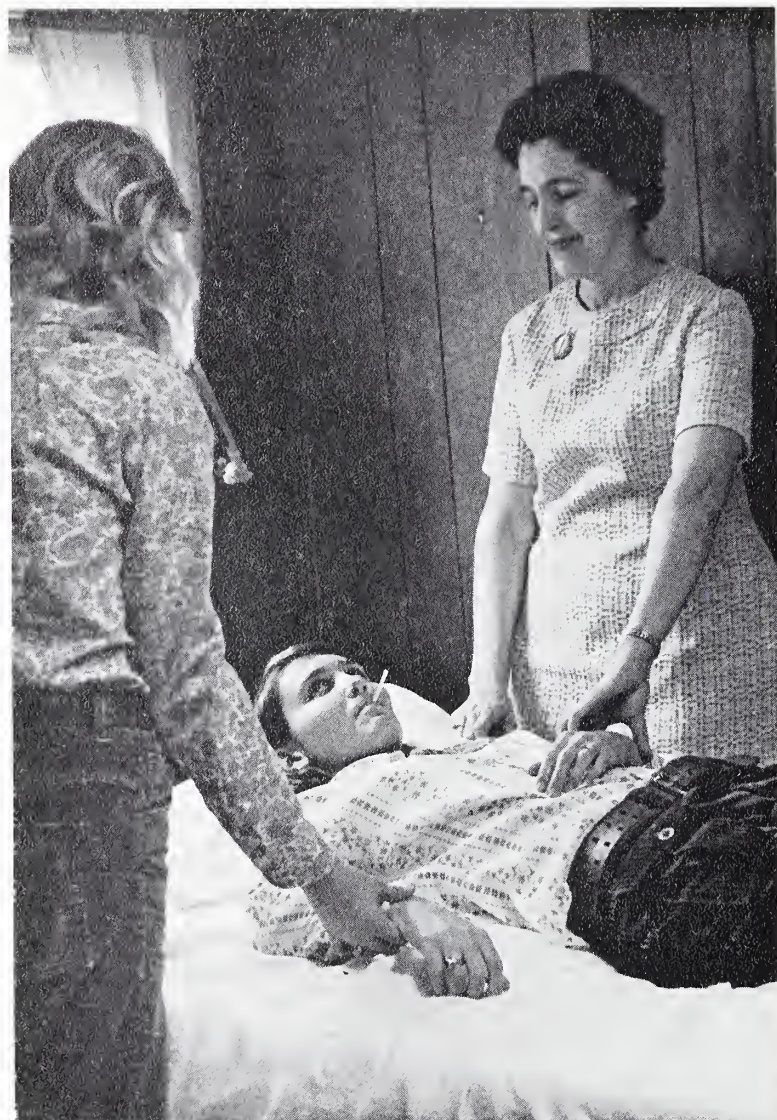

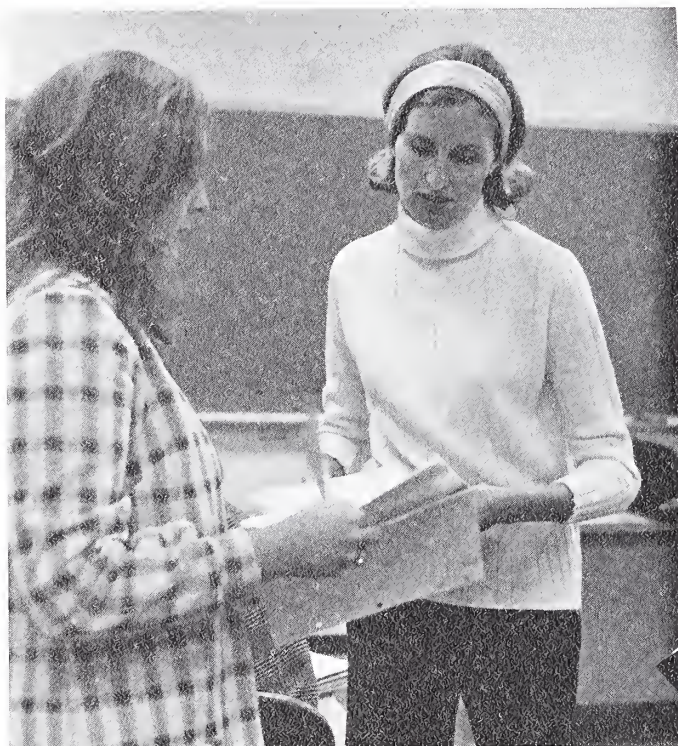

Dr. Ella Levett, Mrs. Linda Gooding, Mr. David Rison.

History spurs interest in the past's events.

Learning from our forefathers mistakes helps us to prepare for the future is the main goal. History courses are offered in every area from the survey of the world's civilization to the Civil War.

Mrs. Barbara Jones, Mrs. Paula Ward, Mrs. Janet Brugh, Mrs. Beverly Moore.

The nursing program at Baptist College enrolls seven trained teachers to instruct girls in the field of medicine. The future nurses are taught by classes and hospital work.

Nurses enter medical field leaving B.C.

Mrs. Linda Carter, Miss Harriett Robinson,
Mrs. Carol Barnes.

Dr. J. Walter Carpenter, Dr. Wallace Rogers,
Dr. Elmer Haight

Today's trends undertake the revival of the religions

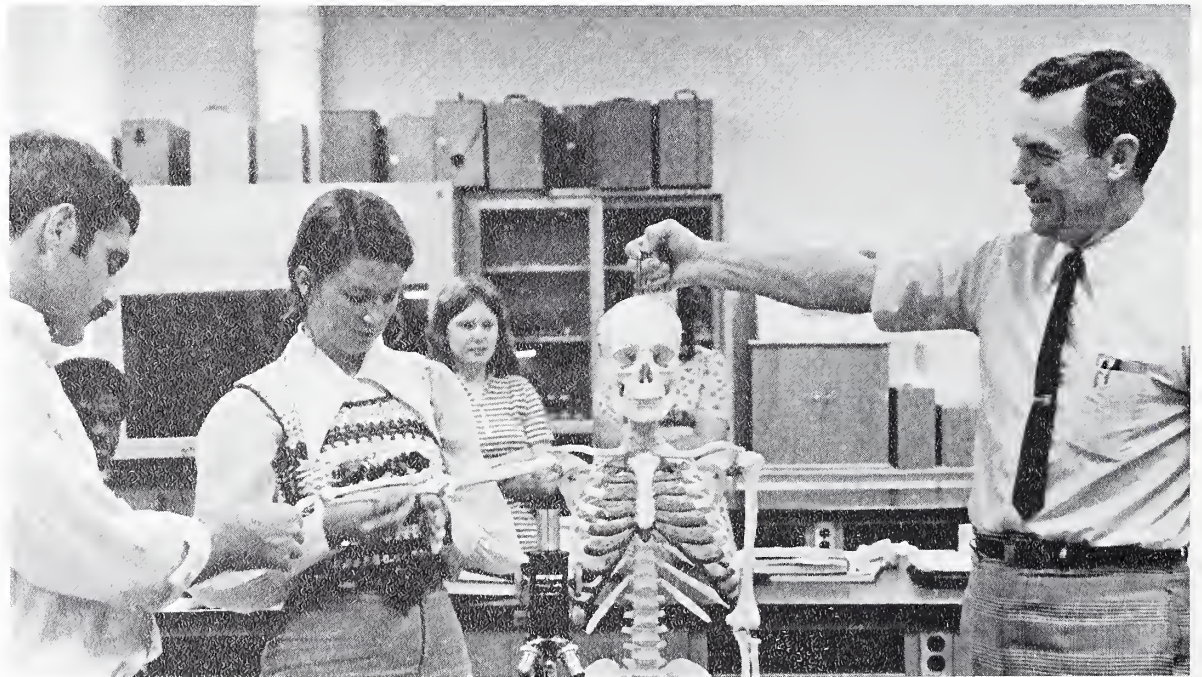

Because Baptist College is a church-oriented and supported institution, the department of religion plays an important role. Philosophy of everyday life, backgrounds of other religions besides Christianity, the in-depth study of Jesus Christ, plus the guidance of three trained men, instill in us our need for a Supreme Being.

Occupying the time of many freshman are survey religion courses which include term papers, outlines, and syllabus notebooks.

Covering the biological aspects of such things as the one-celled life called ameba, and the plant life, and moving to the complicated system of the human, students find themselves engrossed in microscopes and textbooks. Two professors in the department guide students in their explorations of these systems.

Dr. Jim Barrier
Dr. Clarence Chestnutt

Department of Biology encompasses all the living.

Biology students examine plants and animals during lab, while they use various instruments to make things exciting.

Developments in chemistry aid in the future

The science department at Baptist College is separated into individual groups, chemistry being one of them. Three teachers staff this section and their invaluable knowledge of the course enables students to gain intellectually. Both a major and a minor in chemistry are available here at B.C.C.

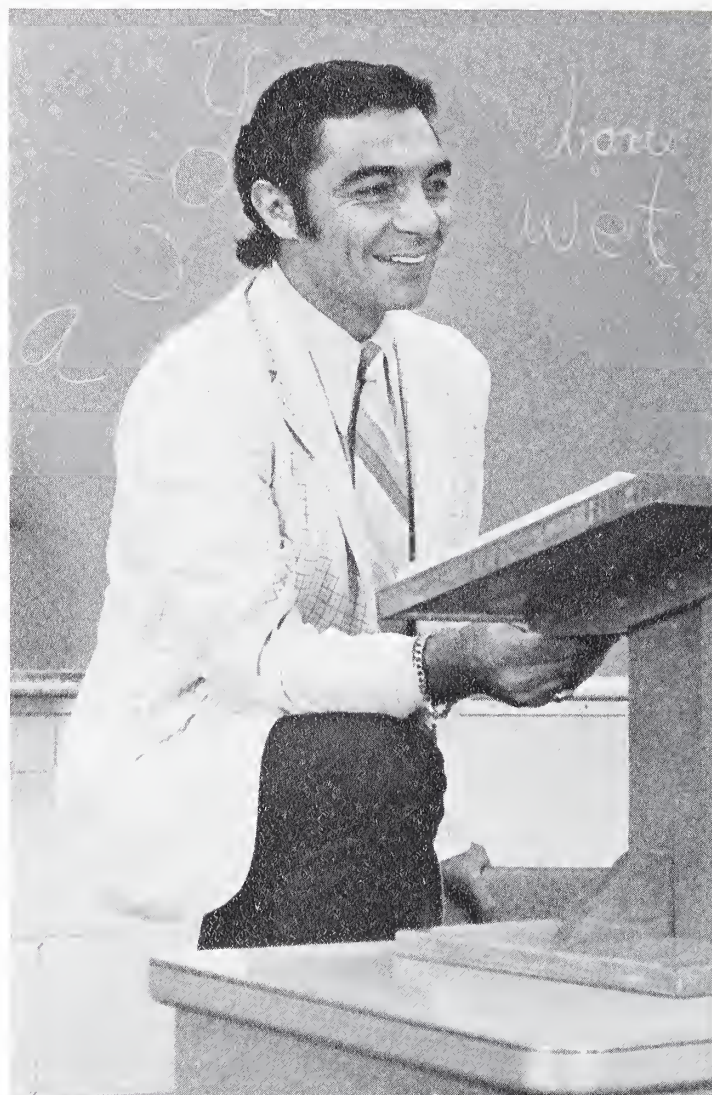

Dr. Augustus Bonnette
Mrs. Joyce Bagwell

Relaxing is the first step in speechmaking.

Speech, being a requirement, gives each student a chance to improve his ability for public speaking. He may choose a full time career and become a professional or merely use it for improving reports for class and talks he must make in his extra-curricular activities.

Dr. Lawrence Vanella. Mrs. Jean Vanella.

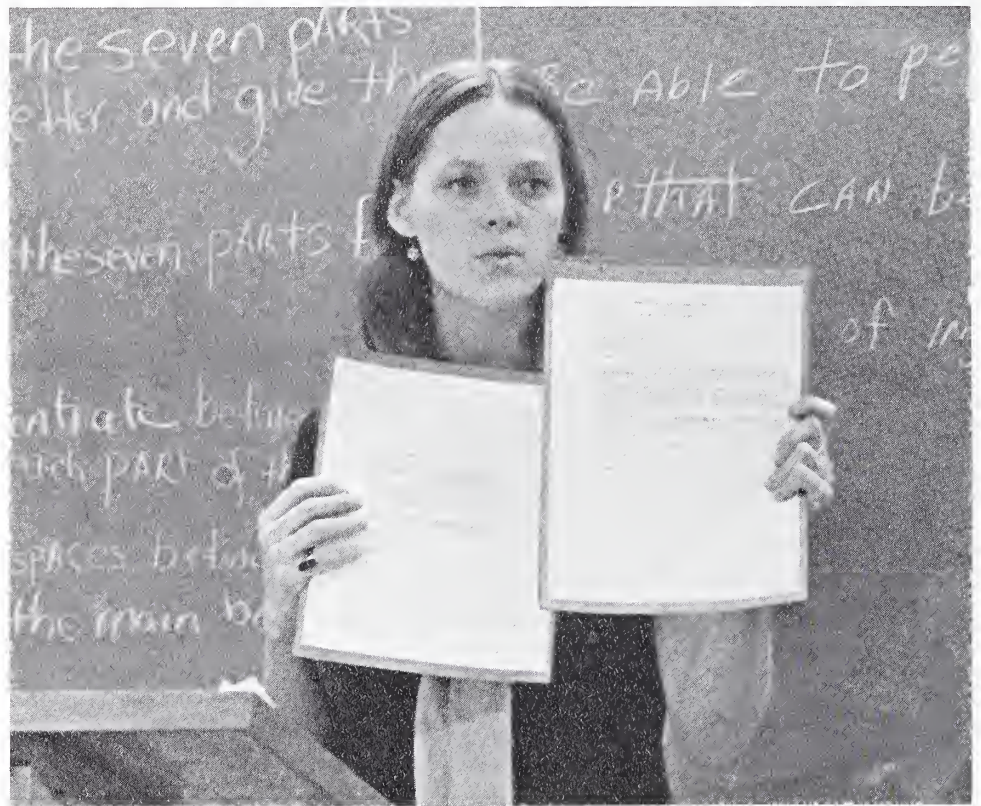

As one of the many speeches he must prepare and make, this student gives a demonstration talk on handguns. Miss Delores Jones.

Courses in education award luster to academics at B.C.

Reports are a definite part of Education courses. Marilyn Burriss demonstrates her techniques of teaching. Miss Carole Austin.

The Education Department of Baptist College contains the sum of our basic need for colleges . . . that of education. B.C.C. offers courses which provide the very necessary skills needed in educating someone else. All students who want to teach, whether on the primary or secondary level, are required to take education courses. These requirements entail all varieties of education and are of value to any student.

Mrs. Ruby Matthews. Dr. Charles E. Brewer.

The outcome of the world around us has a lot to do with the manners of and dealings with people. Four teachers in the Department of Sociology describe the best way for us to handle unfamiliar situations, and to gain from different socio-economic countries. These educators can enlighten our generation's tomorrow.

Dr. Henry Maxwell. Mr. Ed Ledford. Mrs. Carol Fleres.

Sociology students dig into tomorrow's problems today.

Mrs. Kathryn Sharpe.

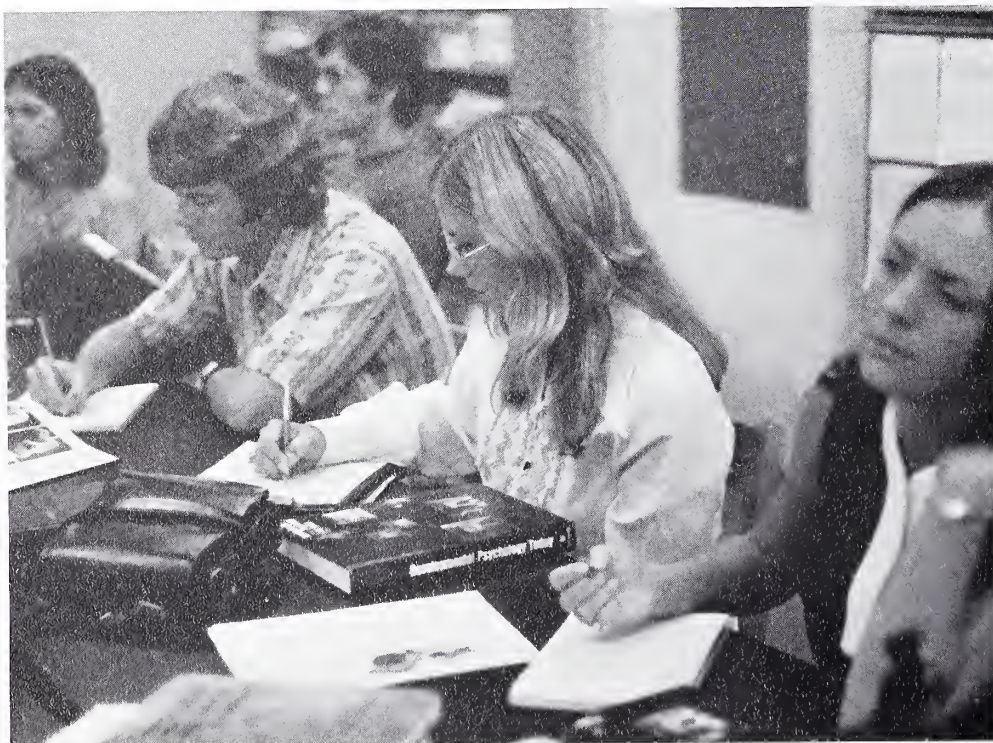

Debbie Baxley, a student in "Principles of Sociology", capitalizes on the chance to draw attention, as she reports her findings.

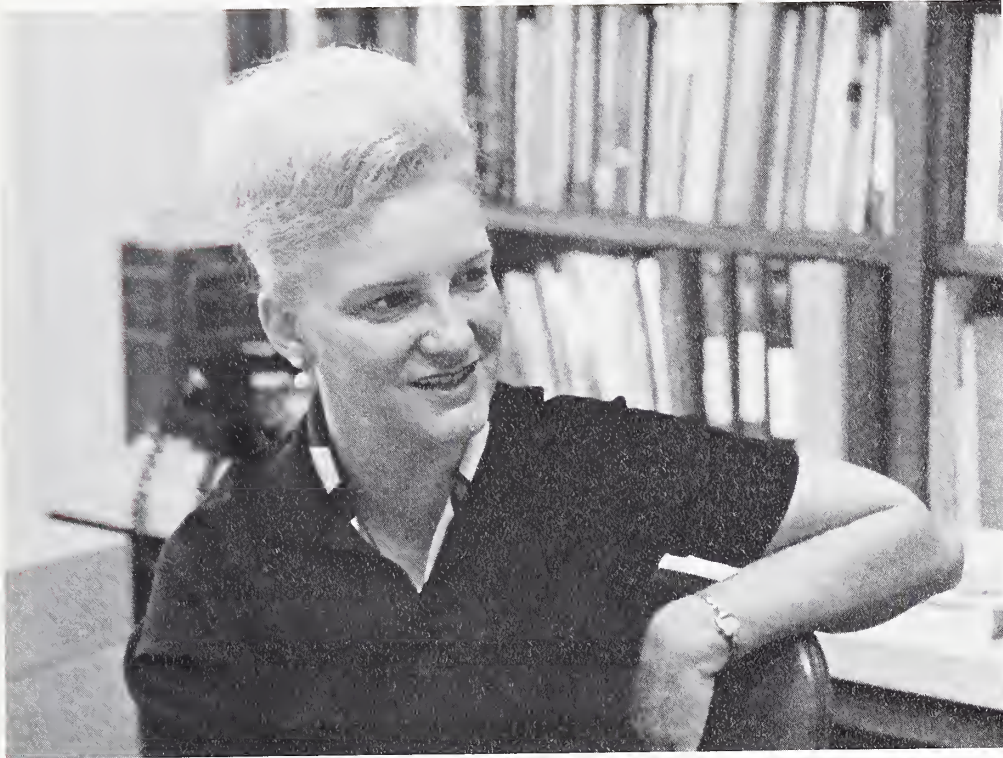

Mrs. Helen Barry, Mr. George Connor: Lectures in "Developmental Psychology Today" supply the knowledge for future use.

Adolescence, I.Q., normal, retardation . . . Now where else could these words fit except with the Department of Psychology? Developing mentally is a vital part of the human being. The Psychology Department deals with the how's and why's a person may develop. Four illustrious teachers here at B.C.C. extend their knowledge to the students enrolled. The students, in turn, share their gains with other students, who, in turn . . . all in one world-wide circle.

Constructing better minds for future

Dr. Aline Mahan, Mrs. Karen Del Porto.

Mr. Joseph Ward, Mr. Kenneth Milton

Artists convey messages of the past and the present.

Conveying a message through the use of pens and pencils projects a true art. Here at Baptist College students learn to appreciate the abilities of others as well as expressing themselves. This function is carried out by the supreme skills of two art teachers.

Foreign languages expand into cultures of the country.

Mrs. Georgia Schlau, Dr. Oksanna Nahnybida.

The foreign language department includes five languages; French, German, Russian, Spanish, and Greek. In the first four languages, a literature course in English translation is offered. A student may receive equivalent credit for studying the cultural aspects of the mother country.

Dr. James Herring, Mr. Heinz-Jurgen Griebisch,
Mrs. Ada Johnson.

A future in business is a road for all

And now the Baptist College proudly presents . . . the Business Department. Eight of the teachers on faculty at Baptist College devote themselves to the teaching of business and its many fields. Lectures, diagrams, financial reports, and even ordinary tests accompany this major or minor. Someday the economy of our nation will rest in our hands. Aren't you glad we have these teachers at B.C.C.?

Interterm offers variety

On and off campus courses were offered with hours varying inside the classroom. One could study the songs of S.C., domestic law or how to use the library. Outdoor activities such as horseback riding and flying were offered, with many courses having field trips.

Repeated from last year, taxidermy educated students in stuffing birds, while others went to the corral to learn how to ride a horse.

With the help of her instructor, Barbara Moringo, a member of the class in aviation, checks the map for charting a course.

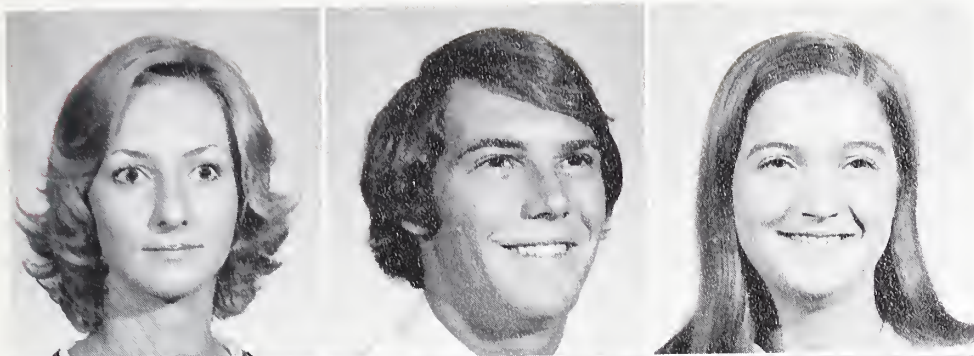

Interterm is not all classes. Leisure time led these students to the coffee house where they expressed their musical talent.

Chorus moves to regular class time.

Voicing all types of music from religious to secular to folk, the chorus of the Baptist College is open to all students. Members of the chorus may receive hours and credit toward graduation while enjoying trips to many towns and institutions to sing.

The size being about the same as last year, the bands progressed even further. in spite of their crowded quarters. Growing in popularity is the stage band. They added vests, ties, and music stands to give their appearance the unified look.

Above, the stage band rehearses and performs a concert for the Board of Trustees, while the concert band polishes up at rehearsal.

Buc 'N Print strives for more issues

Making it's ultimate goal of publishing more issues per semester, the Buc 'n Print staff worked in two-week cycles. Minor problems inhibited a few issues, but the staff managed to cover every area from basketball and Miss BCC to registration and editorials.

Jerry Fox, typist; Carol Parks, editor; Francis Wycoff, Ginger Wright, Index.

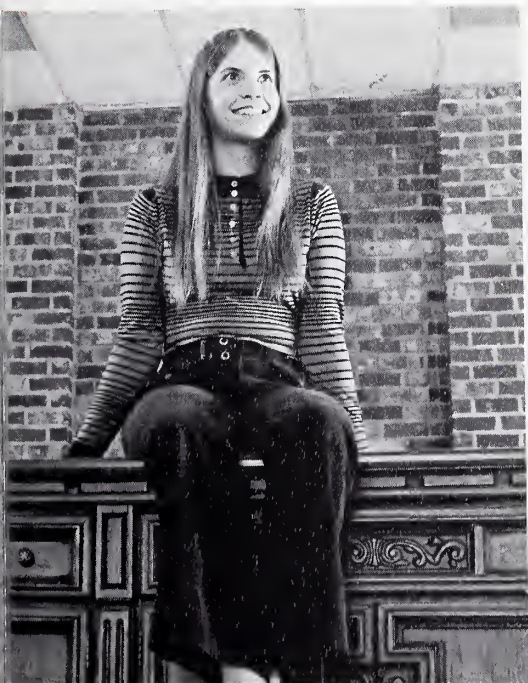

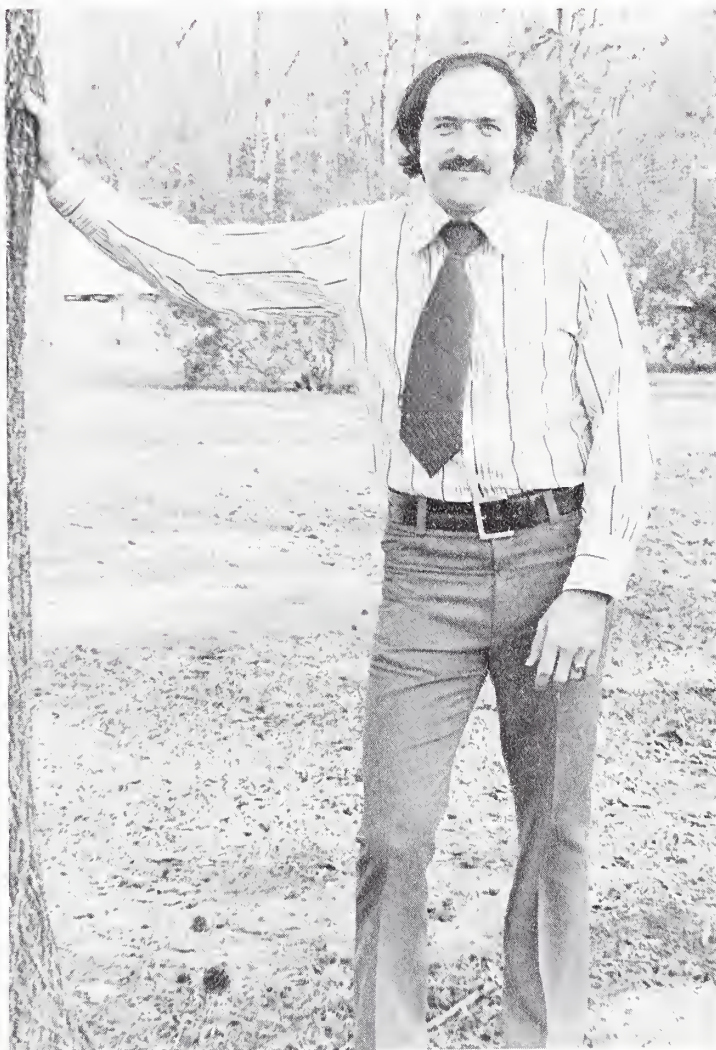

With changes to a new photographer for class pictures and the plan for the class section, the staff tried to make the book just a little bit different. The use of full and process color was the proudest edition, along with the change in type and paper.

"Cutlass" attempts several changes.

Cheerleaders boost Bucs to victory

Selected from the entire student body, cheerleaders are chosen at the beginning of the year. They support BCC team at home and away games. New uniforms, added cheers, and a screaming vitality helped them lead the Bucs to victory.

Cheerleaders: Top to Bottom: Lynne Fortini, Mary Westover, Jan Utsey, Mary Jo McEachern, July Embler, Lynne Buero, Debbie Litchfield.

Sending the starting line-up to a rousing beginning, cheerleaders and pep club members encourage them throughout the game.

Shocking Baptist College and the whole of Charleston was Friday's rain and sleet that turned to snow. Covered by 7 inches, the campus reflected students throwing snow, sliding down hills on "borrowed" trays and walking on the pond. The fireplace in the girls lobby served as the gathering place after dark.

Record snow hits Charleston

Increasing this year to two assistants, the photography staff attempted to work under a new plan. Instead of an annual photographer, and a newspaper photographer, the photography department was formed to serve the annual, newspaper, Sefer and public relations. It is a separate department on it's own.

Photographers try out a new system.

FLASHBACK TO SPRING...

Memories Flash to Yesterday

"Flashback" recalls for upperclassmen Spring Happenings in Review. It centers on the regular functions occurring after the annual went to press, and happenings that no one can predict . . . Buco disappears.

SGA elections brought a run-off for treasurer and new student leaders while graduation took an entire class away. Visitors filled the campus with the dedication of the Strom Thurmond student center and the appearance of Vice-president Agnew.

Spring sparked the formation of an intramural softball league; and the wheels began to turn for a new social club.

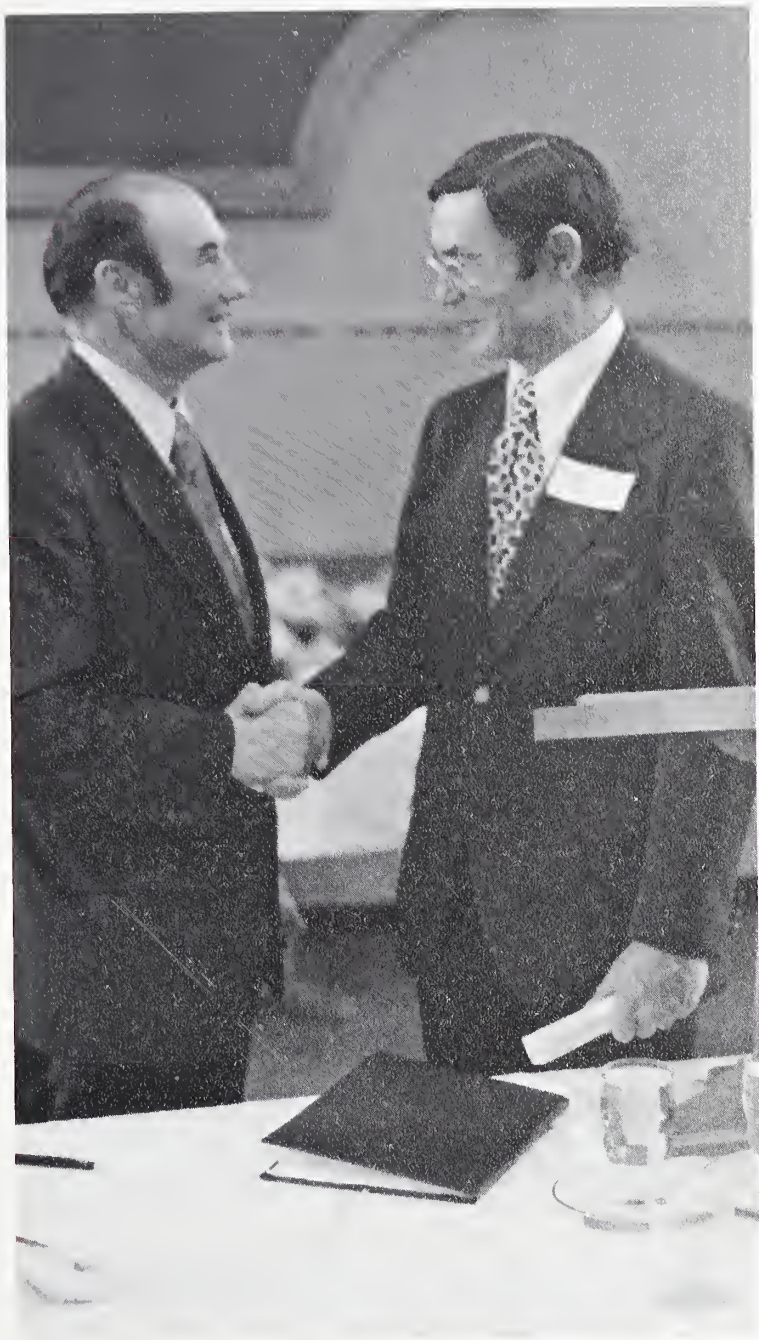

Customarily, the rains fall on BCC's campus as spring insists that rain coats and umbrellas are a part of well-worn attire.

Involvement is a key factor as students gather around a pool of unrest. Those who are interested combine forces which produce results.

Hands were snapping and toes were tapping at the '72 Junior-Senior. A luau and dance at the Sand Dune brought life to living color.

Senator Strom Thurmond, Republican from S.C., was honored as his name crowned the Student Center in dedication ceremonies.

Appearing at the dedication last May was Spiro Agnew, Vice-President of the United States.

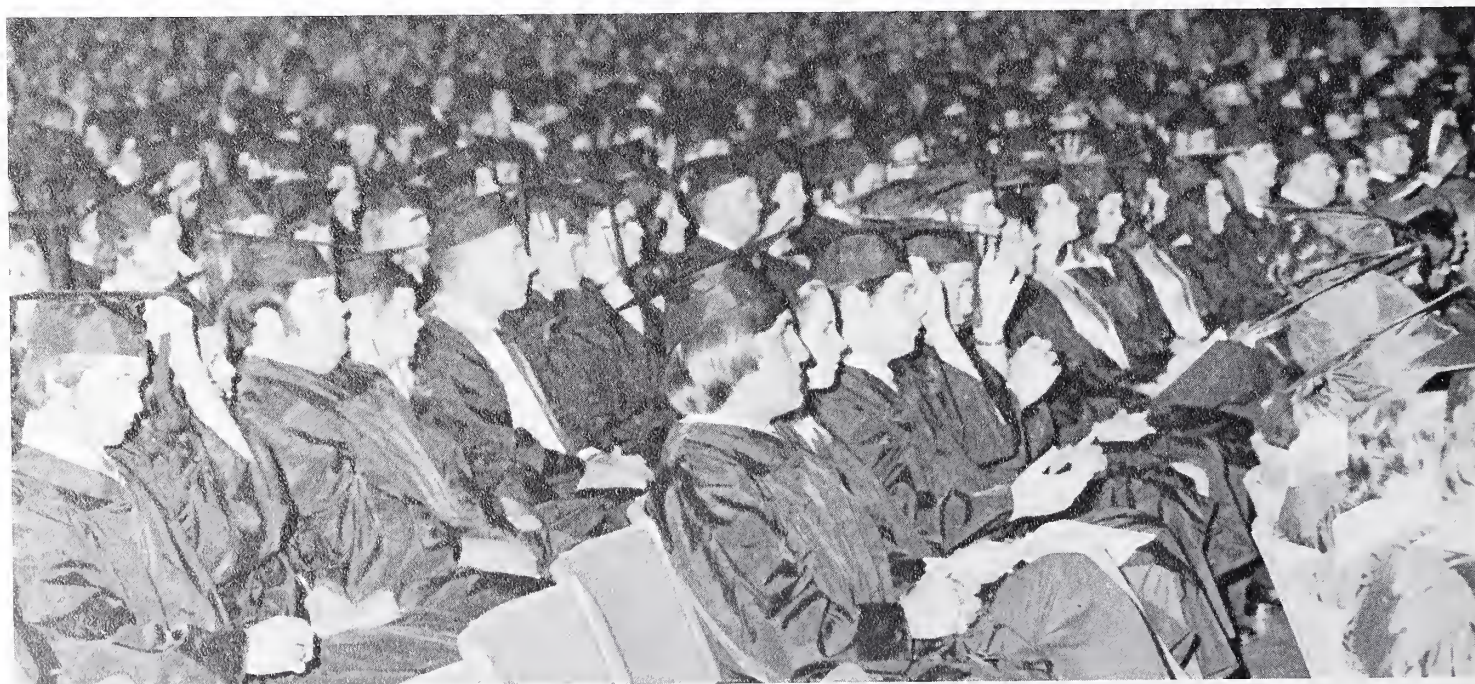

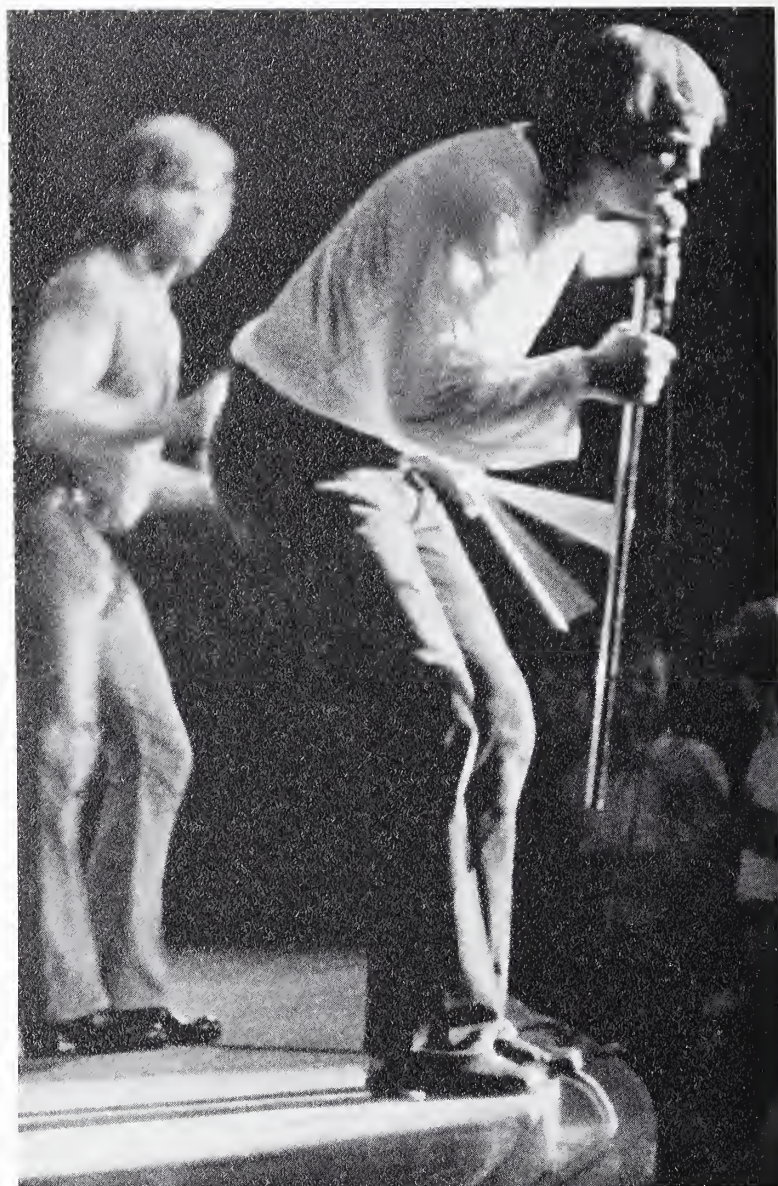

May Day 1972: Jan Utsey, Susan Faulk, Cely Clark, Beth Yarborough, Pat Bull, Rosie Pagan, Debbie Litchfield, Judy Yost, and Judy Duncan.

Trips to the beach and searching for summer jobs ended the spring semester for many students . . . and summer began. Days were filled with classes that lasted for almost two hours at a time, hardly bearable, and then off to work. Remember the conservation kids, the senior citizens, and all the other guests that kept us company?

The back-up group for the Rare Earth concert was the "Fabulous Rhinestones," a rock group also which consisted of five men.

Last April, Baptist College played host to a rock group known as "Rare Earth," whose entertainment is established around the nation.

Graduation ceremonies in May, 1972, presented diplomas to one hundred and eighty-nine seniors. In August eighty-six were presented.

Spring time fades away into Summer

May 11 and 12 were the days that both service and social clubs participated in a struggle called Derby Day. ZK and NKA were winners.

The balconies are a scene for girls during the hot months in Charleston as Vivian Owens and Marsha Findley touch up their tans.

Competing with the heat, Baptist College students give up and swarm the beaches. Week-ends dismiss studies and fun in the sun begins.

Soon-to-be super-stars, these boys were among the hundreds of people from various groups who camped out at BCC during the summer.

...AND SUMMER OF 1972

The Role of Rats Challenges One's Sanity

Freshman congregate as ratting finally ends.

Two girls entertain in puppet dance routines.

Night raid tempts boys to invade the dorms.

To be classified a Freshman is certainly a pain in the neck, and everyone can verify that statement. Adjusting to new rules, friends, and studying habits, were nothing compared to the agony experienced during Rat Week. Those awful caps were followed by weird "suggestions" and demands by those who had passed the Freshman stage. Now it is easy for all to look back and explain those ridiculous feelings entailed while escorting a gorgeous Senior girl or the most popular Senior boy through the cafeteria. Some will graduate from BCC, while others will not . . . But look what memories we all have.

Listening to talks was one task for freshman.

"Flood!" was the scream these girls heard.

Entertainment during club drop-ins had spirit.

Municipal auditorium was the scene of the first concert of the year with the "Three Prophets and Caution."

In the beginning the "Prophets" were two vocalists, Billy and Barbara Scott and a band of four musicians. As time went by they became the Georgia Prophets and continued their success as a rhythm and blues group during an age when hard rock was beginning to take over. After the addition of Janet Helm there came a breaking point and their new start gave birth to the "Three Prophets and Caution". The vocalists and their band hold many promises for even further success in the entertainment world.

Three Prophets and Caution

Pledges entertain the campus during social club rush week

The first weeks in October marked the period of Rush for service and social clubs on campus. Climaxed by an exciting night, the previous days were unpleasant. Pledges were harrassed by members, as well as other students, and their duties consisted of everything from washing clothes to collecting the clothes items from the opposite sex.

Wearing of strange apparel, carrying trays, and pillows are all part of rush as is the final night of activities.

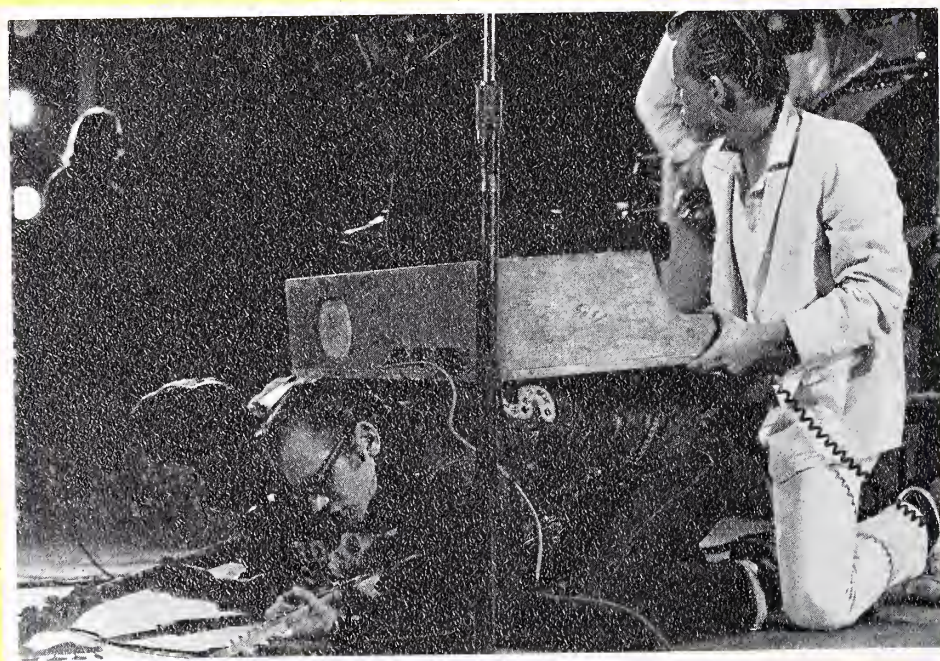

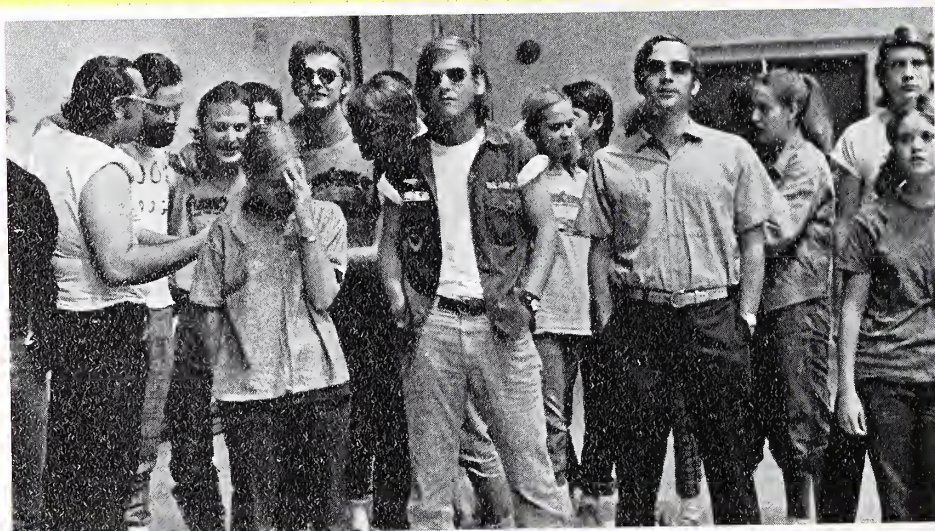

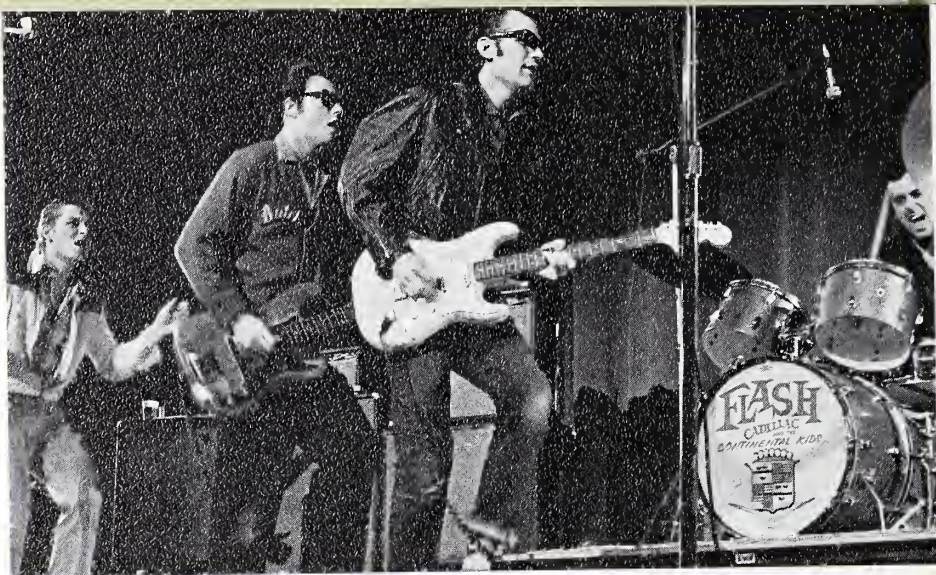

Tradition to rush week is the dash across the campus. Students use this to signify which club they wish to gain.

Flash Cadillac and the Continental Kids

During convocation students spirited the scene posed as rednecks in preparation for the unique entertainment of Flash Cadillac.

A slow blues melody brought tears to many eyes, while laughter brought tears as Warren Peper was crowned "Redneck of the Year."

Good sounds even in the unusual positions indicate to the audience that group members must have musical ability.

Considering themselves crusaders against the boredom of the current music scene, Flash Cadillac and the Continental Kids are transporting audiences back to the fifties and the old style showmanship of rock and roll. Typical is the visual show which includes the combing of hair between songs and Flash's "call to get real Low" that leads the group to a limbo-like position.

Behind the scenes these guys are quite intelligent and completely aware of what they are doing on many levels and how it effects their audience.

Cross Country wins in State Finals

Despite the conditions of running all but one meet on a visitor's home track, the Baptist College Cross Country team captured the golden title of "State Champs" in the Fall of 1972. Ending the season with a record of 3-0-1 in dual competition, the competitors represented the College ideally. At the State meet Ken Layne and Dave McGinnis broke previous state records with Ken Layne setting a new record for the five mile course.

ELECTION YEAR—1972

In order to select the candidate that would represent them best, each major political party held its national convention.

1972 witnesses many political questions, beginning with the campus and extending to the national scene. The freshman class elections had a strong hold within while a very lively participation occurred on the local and national level, due mainly to the eighteen-year-old vote. With the visits of Representative Mendel Davis, opponent Sidi Limehouse, and the surprise visit of Nick Zeigler, the campus buzzed with political spirit throughout the entire campaign.

Hours of speeches, tee shirts, buttons, and bumper stickers were essential items in the lives of politicians and voters.

Parent's Day was held on October 19. The canteen, parents soon discovered, is the place of residence for BCC students.

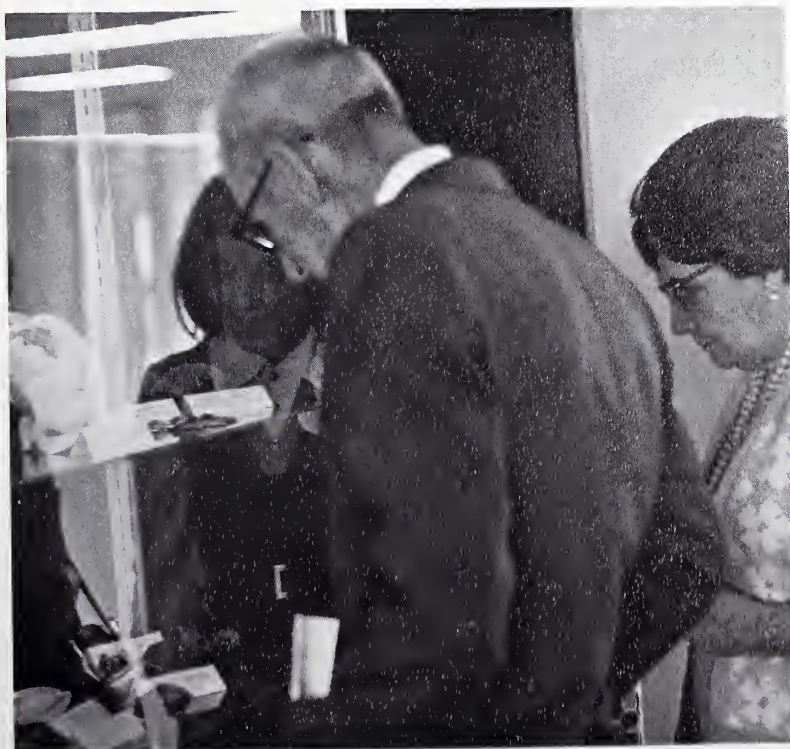

Beginning with teacher-parent conferences the afternoon festivities continued with mini-concert presented by BCC students.

The Annual Parent's Day Adds Color to the Campus

A hug from home was surely a welcomed greeting, while other students' parents concerned themselves with the science department.

Parent's Day began at 3:30 P.M. on October 19, 1972. Parents of Baptist College students once again arrived on the campus with splendid intentions of viewing their son or daughter's college. For the first hour, parents were urged to visit the offices of teachers their child had. The next hour was employed in the gymnasium where a small concert was presented by music students of B.C.C. After a buffet meal, parents and students alike joined the pomp of crowning the new Miss Baptist College.

Crowned Miss Baptist College for nineteen seventy-three is Miss Lou Ann McNeill, representing Tau Kappa Alpha.

Third runner-up, Gail Marion, representing the Afro-American Society, portrays a woman beckoning those succeeding her to carry on.

Lou Ann McNeill is crowned Miss BCC 1973

Parent's Day ended with the crowning of a new Miss Baptist College, Lou Ann McNeill. Sigma Phi Sigma and Alpha Rho Omega sponsored the pageant and "Babes in Toyland" was the prominent theme. Dr. David Cuttino was the master of ceremonies. Miss Beth Yarborough took the honor bestowed upon her as "Miss Congeniality."

Faye Breland, Miss BCC 1972 thrilled the audience with her parting words to the music of "Help Me Make it Through the Night."

National Entertainment Conference

Municipal Auditorium in Charleston was the location for the South Eastern National Entertainment Conference hosted by the Baptist College. From September 30 thru October 4, there were workshops in the areas of outdoor recreation, videotape programming, films, mini concert, and travel. Fifty-two schools from South Carolina, North Carolina, Georgia, Virginia, Tennessee, and Florida attended the conference along with fifty-two agencies and twenty-nine groups to present their talent.

Attempting to bring back the jive rock 'n roll that existed in the 1950's are the constantly moving Vince Vance and the Valiants.

Football scrimmages are as unusual as one in the classroom. Broken bones have been known to result as teams contest drills.

Flag football is almost obsolete in Bagdad. Cell face's game of football is mostly operation and tackles still exist though.

Who says Bagdad College doesn't have a football team. Just as January calendars basketball and March and April mark track and football so does November represent in-tramural football. Classy names such as the "Studs" and "Soul Patrol" are among the men's teams in action. So next year, join the annual event as a passer-by or a participant by supporting our weary, willing in-tramural football teams.

Intramurals put together the athletics

A group of players from the intramural football team are seen in action during a game. The players are wearing green and white jerseys, and the game is taking place on a grassy field.

Spring Registration is fighting the hassle

Dreading the waiting in line and the confusion, needing it to get all your courses, and looking forward to it because it means you're finishing school, registration is a vital part of a student's career. We stand in cold or heat and wait for master cards and then we're on our way to having what we need for the next semester.

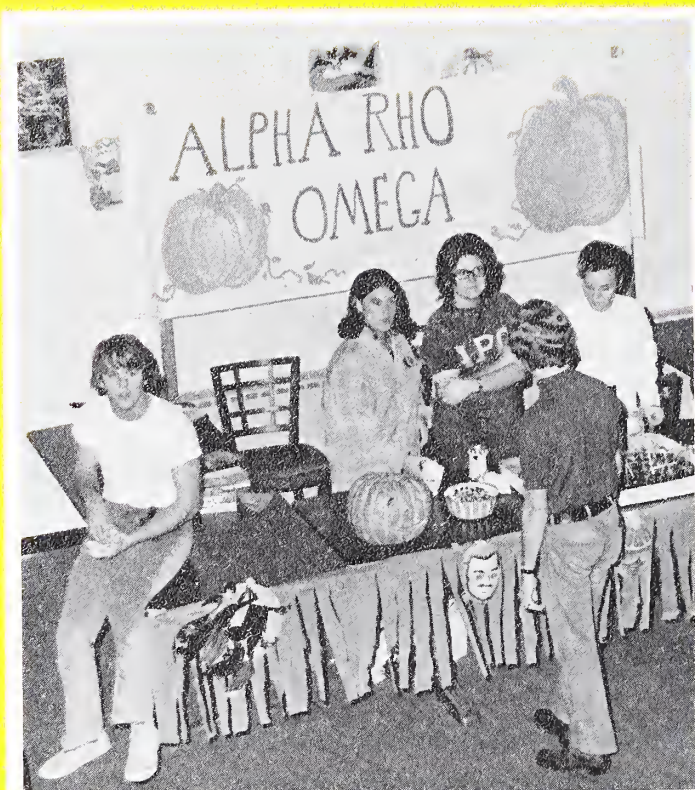

Waiting in line, signing your name on class rolls, and picking up cards for next semester classes are all part of registration.

Halloween carnival is termed a success

Preceding the three hours of ghastly horror flicks, an old-fashioned elementary school-type carnival was held. Everything from selling popcorn, to throwing darts, to climbing rope ladders, to water balloon fights was done. Most of the clubs around campus participated and crowds of students made it worthwhile.

The Halloween spirit was climaxed on the B.C. campus this year when clubs held a Halloween carnival full of games and prizes.

Among the fun-filled games was a pie-throwing contest with unusual ingredients, sponsored by the social club, Gamma Omega Phi.

Money was the key factor in attracting people to APO's and Circle K's booths. Daring feats and guessing dimes added to the fun.

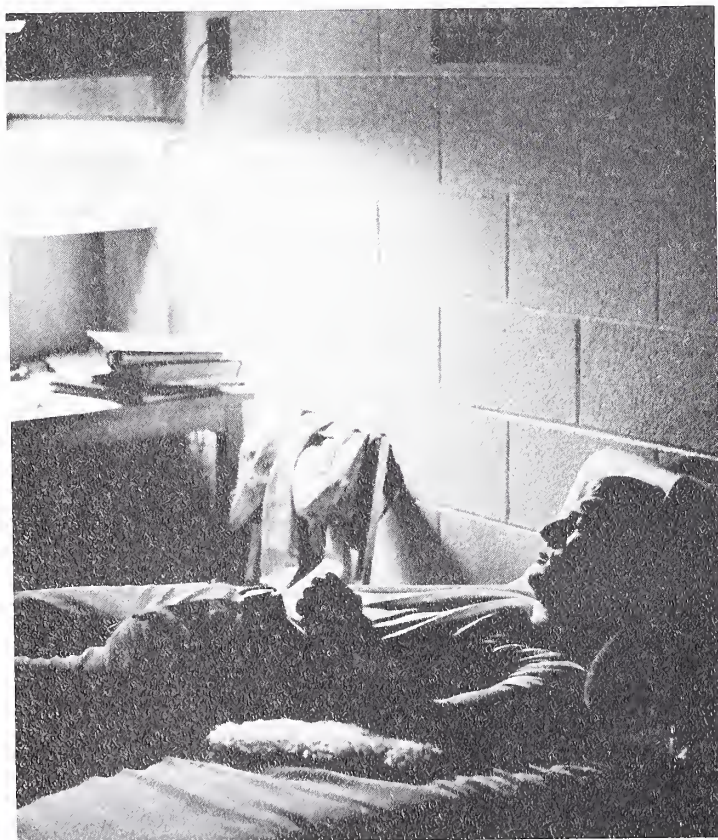

Secretaries in the library basement were not alone on Halloween. Plenty of witches, ghosts, and goblins helped them work better.

Living with people of different backgrounds and nationalities offers a person an expanded sense of knowledge. At Baptist College the dorm life makes such things available. Gathering for social functions, co-ed activities and good, wholesome fun are what shape the character of her students.

Life in dorm is production of friendship

Count on Kathy Brashier, Rosemary Myers and Beverly Cook for entertainment. Here they display their artistic ability.

Quiet moments are hard to find in a dorm. You think things are under control, then problems spring up.

It's not unusual to find a shaving cream fight almost nightly in the boy's dorm, or a party in the girls' dorm.

Jane Graves and Lucy Ann Mason entertain themselves with a new styled tennis game on the parking lot in front of the dorms.

CARPENTERS

With the potential for being the best concert ever sponsored by the student government, the Carpenters in concert met every expectation. The smooth sound created by Karen and Richard Carpenter and their back-up band eased students into their own dream world of melody and meaning, as well as taking them back through the hits of the 50's and 60's. Almost as good as the Carpenters in their own way were Skiles and Henderson, the opening act of comedy, music, and unusual sounds.

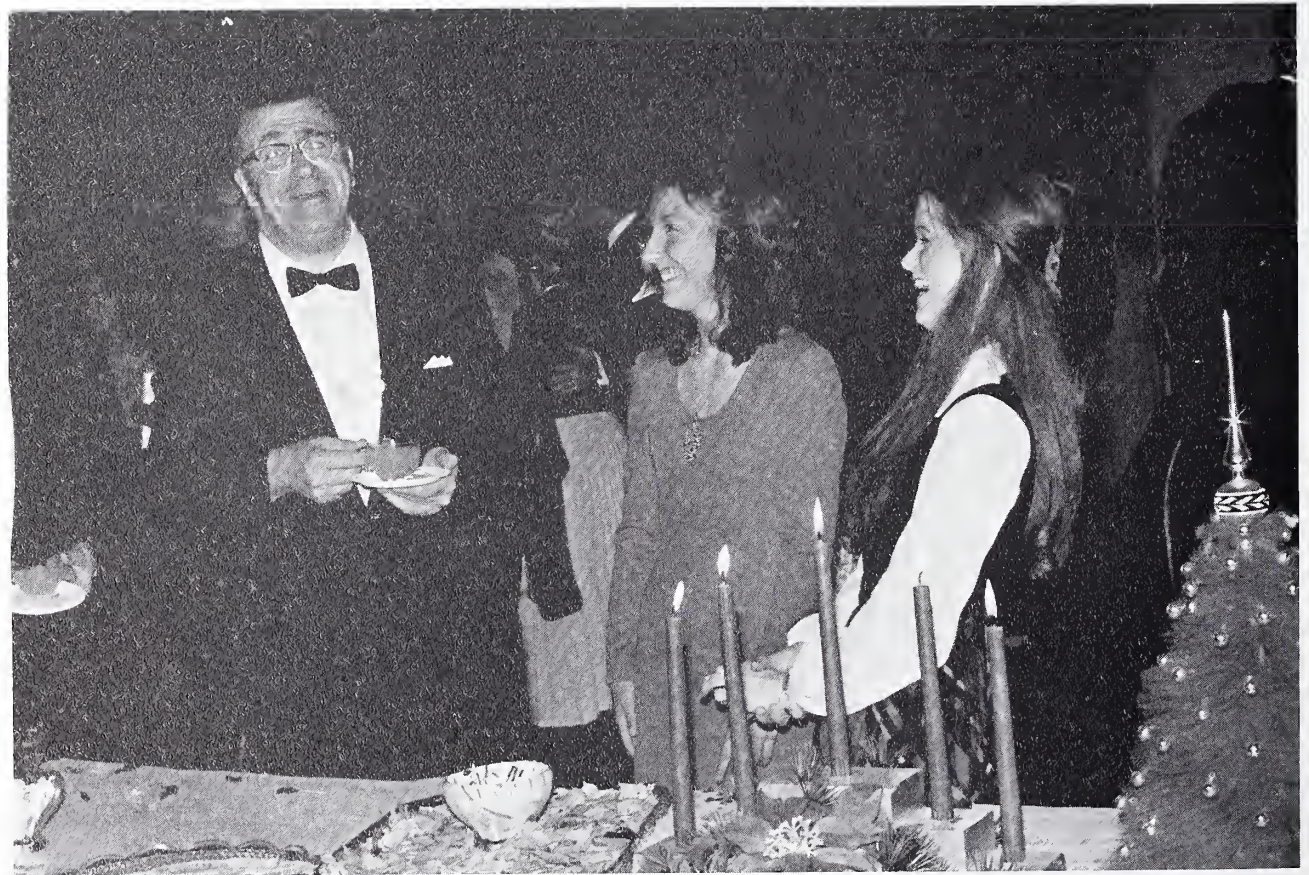

Well known at Christmas is Santa Claus, and happiness as shown on the faces of Mr. Stone, Lynne Fortini, and Debbie Litchfield.

Christmas happiness and joy fill the B.C.C. campus

Angels and mortals, a tradition already set in the girls' dormitory, converge at the evening party to give each other gifts.

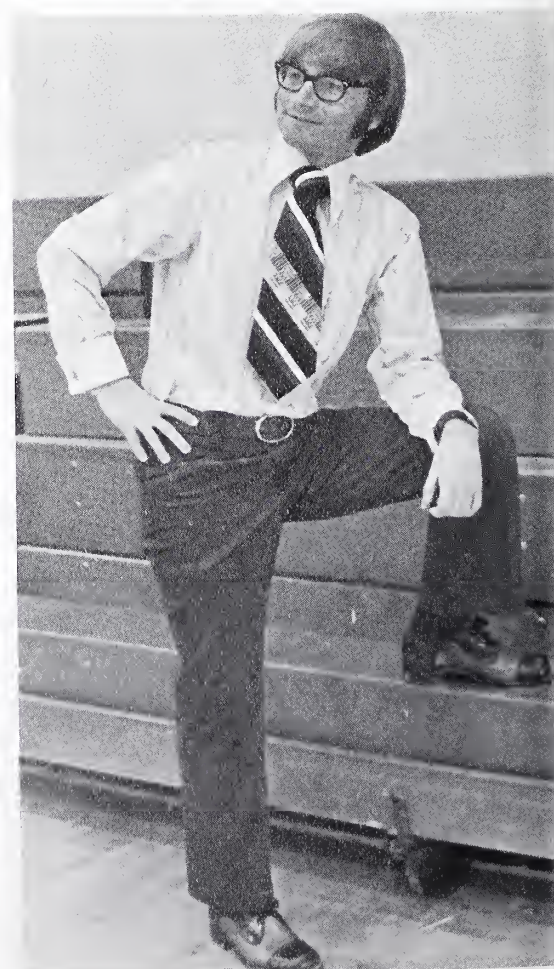

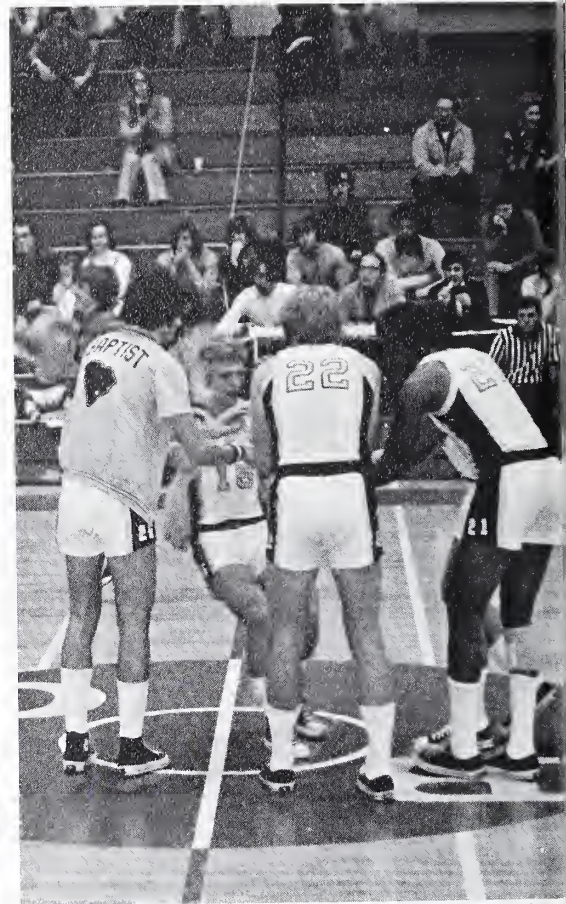

Giving of gifts, spreading of cheer, and seeing old friends at home were all part of each person's Christmas. Two weeks of vacation from classes and responsibilities were preceded by parties that celebrated the season.

After the announcement of the starting line-up, the traditional clap of hands start the game. Below: Harris Long, trainer.

Bucs fair well at home and away

Players, coaches and spectators occupied the gym at Baptist College from early October until the end of February. A ten-man team was listed in the charts for Coach Al Ferner. His second season began officially over the Thanksgiving Holidays in a Tip-Off Tournament at Wofford College. The Bucs ended up in third place for the tourney. U.N.C. at Wilmington was the first home game for B.C. and from then on it was road trips to Milligan, Tennessee, Miami, Florida, and to various other colleges in the southeastern region, scattered into the home game.

With perfected shooting of Doug Shanklin, the Buccaneers take back the lead that gives the game a grand start.

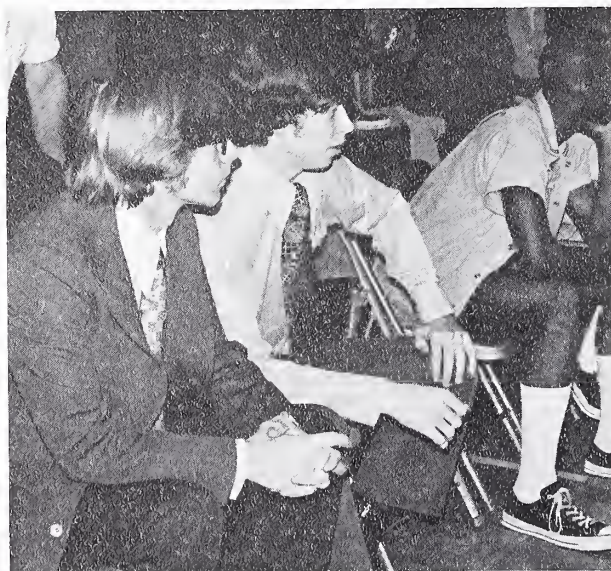

Preparing to start the game, the Bucs warm up while cheerleaders and the crowd warm up with shouts and screams

season of victories.*

As trainer John Holden and manager Raymond Brown look on, Buc team members score the point that takes the game.

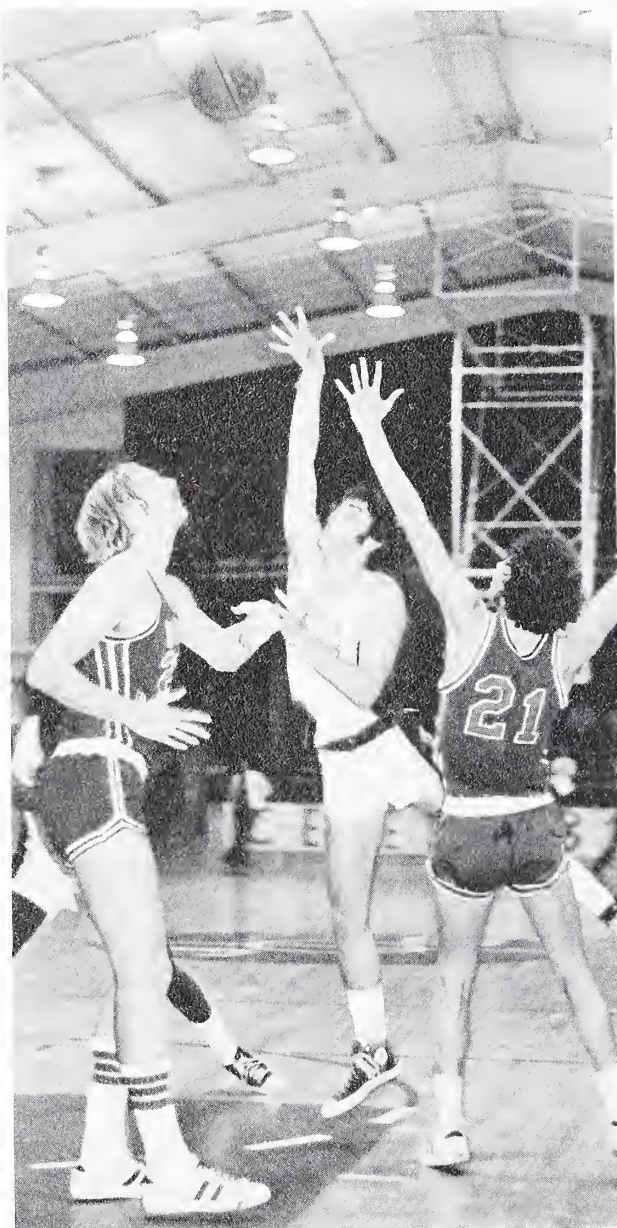

Buc team members gather on the sideline during time-out to plan their strategy before the game resumes.

At the bench, Head Basketball coach, Al Ferner gives the Bucs the instructions they need to take the game.

Dave Kirk, and two members of the opposing team head into battle with reaches for the ball.

“We are the Bucs and We are the Best!”

With Junior College transfers, Thomas, White, and Cuyler, along with freshman Dorman, McKeehan, and the fine Buc returnees, the Bucs handled what could probably be called strongest season ever for B.C. basketball. On December 7, small college great, Old Dominion, returned home in defeat. On January 12, the Bucs beat Erskine College the first time ever on the visitor's court. By losing only one Senior due to graduation, the Bucs will be in good shape next year too.

Victory over their opponents came to the Bucs through expert shooting ability.

Golf team takes active role in B.C.'s sports

Capturing titles, winning trophies, and representing Baptist College in Inter-collegiate matches were all part of the Spring schedule for B.C. golfers. This year's team had advanced more than any other year's team due to earnest practice by the players and enthusiasm from the coach Dr. Odom. Their matches included local ones from Charleston colleges and extended throughout South Carolina and Georgia. B.C.C.'s home links are Berkeley Country Club, Summerville and King's Grant Country Club.

Jim Rupert, Sam Isgett.

Baskets, passing the ball, jump balls, and fouls are all part of the action that takes place during the games.

Combining skills in passing, shooting, and dribbling, the girl's basketball team perfects a game of running. About half of this year's team returns from last year while the other half are new. These members group together to attack their opponents.

Team members gather at the sidelines for strategy that will bring victory from the battles of the second half.

Away games dominate the girl's season

Homecoming Queen is Cheryl Bowman

Second runner-up: Jo Mellard, NKA; Jeanni Barrineau, SKA; Marcia Findley, GOP; Kathy Murdaugh, Freshman Class; Judy Yost, Gamma Beta Phi.

Selected from the entire student body, homecoming candidates were submitted by each club that wished to participate. They were required to maintain at a 2.0 G.P.R. and be active in extra-curricular activities. Selection of queen was a delightful way to wind up the 72-73 basketball season.
